

I believe that the "deregulation" of broadcasting is not in the public interest. It is limiting the ability of Americans to receive a broad cross section of information, news, entertainment. Already divergent views are limited on the airwaves, this will greatly curtail most competition. It will only benefit the large media companies